THE JAPANESE.

As Clean as They Are Polite and as Gentle as They Are Brave.

The Japanese have many nice qualities and some great ones. They are clean, they are polite, and apparently they are very gentle and very brave. They are said to be exceedingly neat, too, and to be boundedly endowed with that sense of propriety a defective development of which accounts for much of the rubbish in American streets and most of the disagreeableness of American street car travel. They certainly beat us in a good many things, and not unreasonably their example is much held up to us nowadays for emulation. Intelligent foreigners who have observed us closely have declared that we are the rudest and the kindest people in the world.

Of course it is a pity that we are not more universally courteous; that our children are not demure and orderly like the Japanese children; that we throw papers into the street and drop peanut shells and orange peel on the faces of our public conveyances. Of course it is a pity that we are not more like the Japanese in many particulars; but, for my part, I make bold to confess that American manners, with all their defects, are better suited to my American taste than Japanese manners, with all their gentle perfections.

American manners are not nearly as good as they should be, not nearly as good as one may hope they may become, but that Japanese would profit them is not so certain as it looks at first sight, even if it did not involve a much greater amount of self repression or self obliteration, doubtless more apparent than actual, than the American temperament could endure or has any desire to attain to. The amelioration of our national demeanor must rather be sought in an increased and enlightened self control joined to a strengthened self respect. If we ever do become civilized, it will be first at the heart and afterward at the mind.—Scribner's.

HORSE FOLLOWED FUNERALS.

A Louisville Steed That Caused His Mistress Deep Mortification.

"Some years ago," said Alderman James C. Gilbert to a reporter, "I had a tenant down town who died, leaving a wife and helpless family. Their only property consisted of an old mare, and more to oblige them than anything else I bought the horse. She was gentle and my wife adopted her for her own driving, and was much pleased for awhile, as the old mare was so gentle that my wife could drive her about town herself. "It seemed, however, that the mare had once belonged to an old lady over in New Albany who had a mania on the subject of funerals and made a point never to miss one. The old mare's principal occupation for years had been to follow funeral processions to the cemeteries. One day my wife was driving down the street, when she suddenly encountered a negro funeral, followed by a number of societies with all the paraphernalia of an imposing cortege. "The old mare recognized the procession at a glance, and calmly turned into the line of the parade. In vain my wife tugged at the reins and tried to turn out. The old mare knew her business, and with her head hung down solemnly followed close behind the mourners. Occasionally they would meet an acquaintance of ours, and they looked with surprise at the tribute which my wife was apparently paying to the deceased, until my wife was frantic with mortification and anger. "At every crossing she would appeal to bystanders to stop the old mare, but they didn't seem to understand, until at last they passed a policeman, who, in response to my wife's tearful appeals, stopped the old mare and dragged her out of the procession, much to her surprise and disgust. Of course I had a good laugh over it, but it was no laughing matter with my wife, and I had no peace till I sold that old mare and got her out of sight for good."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Happy Malloquin.

As for the people, he it understood that a Malloquin is no more a Spaniard than a Shetlander is a Scot. Like his Moor-Aragonese forbears, he is a lazy, ill-conditioned, unenterprising sloth, with but one idea of life—that of siesta. The number of those who live by active and visible labor is astonishingly small. The first thing that strikes you on landing in Palma is that it is a place where everything long ago left off happening. Of life there it may truly be said, "Les jours se suivent et se ressemblent." Palma is as quiet as Malta is noisy, and that is saying a good deal. Food is cheap and abundant. A robber is as rare as a beggar, and life and property are perfectly secure in every corner of the island. The people, if not active in the cultivation of moral virtue, at least show a want of sympathy for that which is violent or uncharitable. Though ignorant, idle and superstitious, they are honest and inoffensive and live in the bond of peace. If a couple of common folk have a difference, they straighten it out with their fists, and neither is the worse.—Chambers' Journal.

In the value of stock the state of Iowa stands first, having $206,436,242 invested; Illinois is second, with $189,431,324; Missouri is third, with $138,701,173.

A KNIFE

in the hand of a Surgeon gives you a feeling of horror and dread. There is no longer, necessarily, for its use in many diseases formerly regarded as incurable without cutting.

The Triumph of Conservative Surgery is well illustrated by the fact that RUPTURE or Hernia, is now radically cured without the knife and without pain. Clumsy, tedious, and dangerous! They never cure but often induce inflammation, strangulation and death. Your Favorite Operation (Hernia) and many others, are now removed without cutting operations. PILE TUMORS, large, Pile of the lower bowels, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife. STONE in the Bladder, no matter how large, is crushed, pulverized, washed out and perfectly removed without cutting. STRICTURE of Urinary Passage is also removed without cutting in hundreds of cases. MOTHERS and those soon to become mothers, should know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a childbearing medicine, is the best to take before confinement, or at least it proved so with me. I never suffered so little with any of my children as I did with my last.

Mrs. DORA A. GUTHRIE, of Oakley, Oregon Co., Ore., writes: "When I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, I was not able to stand on my feet without suffering almost death. Now I do all my housework, washing, cooking, sewing and everything for my family of eight. I am stronger now than I have been in six years. Your Favorite Prescription is the best to take before confinement, or at least it proved so with me. I never suffered so little with any of my children as I did with my last."

SHERMAN'S RECOLLECTIONS.

Senator Sherman has written a book entitled "Recollections of Forty Years in the House, Senate and Cabinet," proof sheets of which have been given to the public. The book has created a profound sensation in political circles and the author has been deluged with inquiries as to whether he had been misquoted in the extracts reflecting on Garfield and Grant. These reflections are severe on the dead Presidents, as Garfield is accused of treachery and double-dealing and Grant with lack of interest in public affairs. In reply to the inquiries Senator Sherman declared that his book colored his references to Garfield in a manner which the full text would not justify.

Referring to the political scheming in the National Republican convention of 1888, he says one man controlled the entire delegation from the State of New York, and between Saturday night, when the nomination seemed certain to go to Sherman, and Monday morning when the tide turned in favor of Harrison, a corrupt bargain was made in the interests of Harrison, which secured him the support of New York and gave him the nomination.

Sherman says Grant's administration was one of scandal and slander. As Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee he had to act upon all questions of taxation, debt, banking and finance and had occasion to talk with the President upon such measures, but he rarely expressed an opinion or took any interest in them.

Sherman is opposed to the recognition of the Cuban belligerents, as such, until they make a better showing. He objects to the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands and says the most important foreign question we now have to deal with is to determine how far to go in enforcing the Monroe Doctrine as applied to the Venezuela boundary dispute.

Ex-Governor Foraker of Ohio says he knows nothing about the book or its contents, but if, as stated in the newspapers, it criticizes prominent Republicans, he is sorry it could not be withheld until after election. It seems the prototype ex-Governor cares nothing for the book except for its effect on the election.

SHERMAN APPROVES CLEVELAND'S POLICY.

Senator John Sherman addressed a meeting at Masillon, Ohio, last Saturday night. He candidly admitted that he, with the great body of Republicans, approved the action of President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle in opposition to the free coinage of silver and their firm maintenance of gold and silver coin at par with each other. "The President," said Senator Sherman, "has always been sound and consistent on this policy."

A year ago Senator John P. Jones, who had opportunity to learn the true inwardness of the Republican party, said he left that party because it was unalterably opposed to the free coinage of silver. He then told the people what Senator Sherman told them now. Sherman says, he with the great body of Republicans approves Cleveland's policy; Senator Jones with some other Republicans do not approve that policy and left the Republican party. As a consistent advocate of free coinage Senator Jones could not affiliate with a party that is opposed to silver and he publicly severed his connection with that party. For this manly and consistent act he was denounced by the Republican leaders and press of Nevada, though both claim, for the purpose of deceiving the people, to be friends of silver.

Now that Senator Sherman, the great Republican leader, proclaims that the great body of the Republican party endorses Cleveland's policy will Nevada Republicans, who claim to be silver men, remain with that party, or will they, like rational, sentient beings, follow the example of Senator Jones and sever their connection with it? As the great body of the party is with Cleveland and Carlisle they cannot hope to change the policy of the great body of the party. The Nevada tail cannot wag the great body of the Republican party, which approves of Cleveland's action, and the only consistent, manly thing for Nevada Republicans, who are not expecting federal offices as a reward for perjury, to do, is to sever their connection with the Sherman-Cleveland combination, unite with those who place free coinage and prosperity above party success, and set other States an example by presenting a solid silver front to the goldbug enemies of the State and the nation.

THE SILVER MEN.

Senator Stewart says the Silver men in Congress this Winter will have a definite programme. He thinks they will form a national party and nominate a candidate for President. Their platform, he believes, will be simple and direct and might be summarized in these points:

The free and unlimited coinage of silver; no further issue of interest-bearing bonds; that the National Government shall issue all the paper currency.

This is a platform upon which the people of the country who favor financial reform can stand. It is not loaded with issues, it deals direct with the financial question and leaves matters of minor importance to be determined when the paramount issue is settled. Senator Stewart does not believe there will be any currency legislation by the next Congress unless the right of silver are fully recognized. Neither wing of the gold combination will have a majority in the Senate and the friends of silver can prevent the passage of any currency bill that is not satisfactory.

WHOLESALE POISONING.

STRYCHNINE PUT IN THE SALT AT A CATTLE CAMP.

Five Men Narrowly Escape an Awful Death on Account of the Dastardly Act.

A warrant was issued yesterday for A. A. Smith, charging him with having administered poison with intent to kill Edward Laird, Amosico Echeveria and three Indians named Dan Foster, Jack and Gene Griswold, at a place near Deep Hole, in the northern part of this county. It seems that there has been a bad feeling existing between Laird and Smith for some time and on the 8th of October Laird, Echeveria and the Indians left the camp to hunt or round up some cattle. They returned to Laird's camp on the 9th inst. and soon afterwards proceeded to get dinner. Bread, meat and beans were cooked and salt from a can which Laird had among his stores was used in the cooking process. When the meat was ready and they began to eat of the food they had prepared Echeveria noticed a peculiarly bitter taste and remarked that he believed poison had been put into something. At this the others noticed it and all quit eating and began an investigation. Each article of food was closely examined and Echeveria discovered crystals in the salt, which he was convinced were strychnine and he carefully selected a few of them, put them in some meat and fed the meat to a cat. In the meantime liberal doses of bacon grease, lard, etc., were taken by the men and the actions of the cat watched with interest. The men only had to watch a short time to satisfy themselves that the cat was poisoned and it soon died. The grease the men had taken acted as an emetic and made the mail very sick, but had they not thought of this remedy it is more than probable that they would have all lost their lives.

Officers have gone out after Smith and will arrest him on suspicion, and he will likely be brought in tomorrow.

LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS.

Happenings Here, There and Everywhere.

The Indians say the coming Winter will be a light one, as the pine nut crop was very poor.

The Ploche Record says an Indian girl about twelve years of age after being made drunk was outraged and murdered at DeLamar last week.

Contrary to general belief, the jurors in the Durrant case do not receive any pay. Jurors in criminal cases tried in San Francisco do not receive any pay.

The Rectory of St. Paul's church in Virginia City was burglarized last Friday night during the absence of Rev. Geo. C. Hunting and wife and $40.50 stolen.

A farmer from up the valley sold a Carson merchant a case of eggs recently of which nearly half had been blown out and filled with water and chaff and then resealed with plaster of Paris.

The Sentinel says Eureka people were highly pleased by the unexpected showers of rain on Tuesday and Wednesday nights. On both nights the rain came on very suddenly, while the barometer indicated fair weather. High winds preceded each of the showers. Thursday morning the weather was clear and warm and remained so up to this writing.

The Reville says Commissioner Walsh planted a crop of potatoes last Spring and no rain has fallen on them nor have they been irrigated, and yet he has a very good crop as a product of that planting. This is results worth noting, for if potatoes can be grown in Lander county without any rain or irrigation we are much richer than we have known before.

Alfred Robinson, a pioneer of 1829, died at his residence in San Francisco Saturday morning of pneumonia, aged 88 years. He arrived in the city in 1829 in a sailing vessel, and is said to have been the first American to settle in this country. In 1848 he was appointed Agent of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and although fairly successful, died comparatively poor. He is the author of a book on pioneer life in California.

The Dispatch says the Jim Blaine Company seems to be getting ready to resume operations in earnest in the Jim Blaine mine and announce intention to build a ten stamp mill soon and begin the work of taking out ore and developing. We have every assurance of this fact from interested parties and believe the mill will soon materialize. At the lowest estimate, made by conservative miners, the Jim Blaine mine has from $30,000 to $50,000 worth of ore in sight, ready for stopping and hoisting, and why the delay we cannot say or account for.

What's the Matter?

Up to a late hour last evening there had been no libel suit instituted against H. H. Beck, nor no proceedings commenced against any public official. What's the matter? Is it possible that Mr. Beck was right and that the public official was not wrong?

Halloween Party.

The Scotch residents of Reno will give a Scotch entertainment and ball in Armory Hall on the 31st of October, which will in our opinion be one of the most amusing and instructive of Scotch styles and customs that can be imagined, one of the most important of these will be the playing on the bagpipes by Donald Weir, one of the players who led the 94th Highlanders British Regiment to victory. VIANI COMPANY. Mrs. B. E. HUNTER, Fourth Street, between Chestnut and Nevada.

The Supreme Court of Nebraska declares that it is neither the province of the Secretary of State nor of the judiciary to determine the question of which is right or wrong in a case which is purely political. This opinion was given in the suit to determine whether the Free Silver or Gold Democrats had a right to have the names of their candidates printed on the official ballot. The Court decided that both had an equal right to the word "Democrat."

STAMER CHAIRS.
A Piece of Furniture That Has Developed Through Ocean Travel.
Steamer chairs were, when first made in this country, called Devonshire chairs. They were fashioned after a chair used in Devonshire, England, on yachts and launches and in smoking rooms and were first made here for the same uses. The Devonshire chairs were rather larger and more elaborate than the steamer chair.
The use of this chair on steamers was begun about 25 years ago. It soon became so popular that it received its present name. Chairs of this style are still sold for land use, both indoor and outdoor, and their use ashore is increasing. The principal manufacturer of these chairs in New York sells them in all ports, if not quite every state in the Union and in Central America, South America and as far away as Australia.
Steamer chairs are made of maple, of oak and of walnut, and they range in price from $2.50 to $6. Children's steamer chairs were introduced not long ago, but not many are sold. When steamer chairs first began to be used, one man in this city made a small fortune by selling them on the piers on sailing days. As much as $15 was paid to him for a chair. For some years this man controlled the best of the chair selling privileges, but others took up the business, and his large profits were soon materially cut down by competition.
For a time sellers of chairs on the piers handled more steamer chairs than the regular dealers. The practice which then sprang up of offering chairs in the street on sailing days in the open space in front of the pier shed, is still continued to some extent. This space is called the fair. There are offered on sailing days fruit, tinware and other supplies such as storage passengers might require, and steamer chairs and other folding chairs.
There is a company that makes a business of renting steamer chairs. A number of the larger steamship companies now rent steamer chairs to passengers. The charge for a steamer chair across the Atlantic is from 50 cents to $1.
Common as their use has become, it is estimated that not much more than half the total number of ocean travelers provide themselves with steamer chairs.

ADVERTISE THEIR AGE.
The Alaskan Squaw Number Their Birthdays on Their Chins.
The Alaska squaw is peculiar—she advertises her age.
At Fort Wrangell, Jenean and Sitka many Indian women may be seen with a piece of wood or bone in the lower lip, and the size of this savage ornament indicates the age of its owner. When a girl marries, her lower lip is pierced, and a peg of wood or a piece of bone the size of a pea is inserted. As she grows older this is increased in size until it is almost as wide as her chin and one-fourth of an inch high. The result is naturally most unsightly.
There is an interesting family at Fort Wrangell which illustrates perfectly this peculiar custom. It includes four generations. A young girl may be seen sitting at one side of the one roomed square frame house, while her mother, grandmother and great-grandmother are seated on the eastern floor near the door, offering mats and baskets to the ship's passengers who come on shore.
The girl has no disfiguring ornament on her chin, but the others have, and the piece of bone in the feeble old great-grandmother's lower lip looks like a wart such as Gulliver may have seen upon the hands of the Brobdingnagians.
This index to the Indian woman's age is about one-eighth of an inch in thickness and is kept in place like a cuff button.—New York Press

An Indian's Education.
The physical training of the hunter was a part of the education of every Indian boy and different tribes had different modes of developing the powers of endurance. Among the Omahas the youth were taught to run, not so much to run rapidly for a short distance as to keep up an even pace for many miles, and the habit of careful observation was also inculcated. The runners' services on the tribal hunt were important. It was necessary for them to be able to travel far in search of the buffalo and to return quickly, so that the tribe could go forward and the hunters encompass the herd before it could move any great distance. They must also closely note the topography of the country as they ran here and there in search of the game so as to be able to direct the tribe to the herd over the shortest route, which they might not themselves have traveled. They must also be constantly on the watch for tracks or signs of an enemy, lest they should bring the tribe into danger. It was not uncommon for these young men to run from 70 to 100 miles within 24 hours, taking very little rest and food.—"Hunting Customs of the Omahas," by Alice C. Fletcher, in Century

Infantile Thirst For Knowledge.
"Mamma, what day is this?"
"This is Friday, dear."
"Where's Sunday?"
"Sunday is still in the future."
"How did it get there?"
"I mean it hasn't come yet."
"What's keeping it?"
"Why, dear, it can't come until it's time for it."
"How does it know when it's time for it?"
"Don't bother me, Katie."
"Mamma, what's Sunday doing any how?"—Chicago Tribune

The Newer Criticism.
A negro preacher addressed his flock with great earnestness on the subject of "Miracles," as follows: "My beloved friends, de greatest of all miracles was 'bout de leaves and fishes. It was 5,000 leaves and 2,000 fishes, and twelve 'postles had to eat 'em all. A miracle is dey didn't bust."—Atlanta Constitution Anticipated Pleasure.

Pleasure owes its greatest zest to anticipation. The promise of a dollar fiddle will keep a schoolboy in happiness for a year. The fun connected with its possession will expire in an hour. Now, what is true of schoolboys is equally true of men. All they differ in is the price of their fiddles.—New York Ledger

PICTURES AND EYES.
How to Adjust the Lenses to Properly Observe the Form.
The observer, in order to see a picture to the best advantage, must adjust his vision to that of the artist who produced it. Most of us do this instinctively. Not only do we select the best point of view from which to observe a picture, but we recede from the painting until the lights and colors blend in just the right degree. In addition to that many instinctively pinch the eyes together, producing thus a momentary astigmatism, such as the artist had produced in his own eye, and find the picture thus apparently improved.
A most useful appliance for viewing pictures is the so called stenopaeic slit. This is merely a slit one or two millimeters in width in a card or thin plate of brass. Simple as this device is but few persons are aware of how much it adds to the effect in viewing paintings, as it allows the rays of light in only one meridian to pass through the cornea of the observer. If he wishes to look at a painting done by an artist whose vision is normal, or nearly so, the observer turns the slit around to correspond with the meridian of his own best vision. If, however, he looks at a picture in which it is desirable to have overlapping of the retinal images—at one where the colors must be mixed in the eye, for example—it is necessary to rotate the slit to another position, usually at right angles to the first, and with this can, which before showed too clearly the blotches of color now becomes blended into a much more perfect whole.
I would recommend this simple device to any one who has not already experimented with it. Thus, by adjusting our own personal equation of eyesight to that of the artist, we literally obtain his point of view. The colors are heightened, the dabs blend and new beauties appear. Instead of seeking, like our friend mentioned at first, for "the handiest way to get out of this 'ere place," we are glad to stay longer to study and to enjoy. Here, as everywhere, it is art and science together that yield the richest result. If science is allowed to be the interpreter, we may gain a heightened enjoyment of art and the artist a comforting increase of appreciation.—Lucien Howe, M. D., in Popular Science Monthly.

Electric Elevators.
A well known electrical authority has pointed out that it is now as easy and cheap to have an electric elevator in a private house as in a large office building. The cost of operating an electric elevator in a five story house, making 10 or 60 trips a day, will not exceed $3 or $4 per month. The devices for operating these elevators have been so improved that an invalid or a child can manage them. The old lever attachment can be dispensed with, and the elevator ascends or descends on the pressure of a button. It will stop only at each floor and will start only when the elevator door is closed.—Boston Journal of Commerce.

Coffee.
Caffeine, the active principle of coffee, was discovered by Runge in 1820. In a pure state it takes the form of long silky needles. In ordinary coffee it is present to the extent of about 1 per cent, but Java coffee contains 4.4, and Martiniqne has as much as 6.4. It is said by some chemists that caffeine in its essentialities is identical with theine, the active principle of tea. Claus affirms that the inferior qualities of tea contain more caffeine than the best commercial grades.

The Ancient Purse.
For several centuries the purse was always worn fastened to the girdle. A purse got his name from the fact that rather than take the time to loose the purse from the belt, where it was secured by buckles, he cut the straps.
